WHERE DO YOU SEE YOURSELF AT LOGICA?

We are seeking young, skilled employees for various tasks in consulting, projects, technology and services.

Interested in Consulting?

Logica is one of the leading business consulting companies in Europe. We have over 4,000 consultants working in various countries globally and supporting the business of our clients. We work for different industry sectors and help our clients, for example, create IT-strategies, build next-generation IT-architectures (EA/SOA), design and manage change programs, develop their operation and processes, and implement new solutions (SAP, Microsoft, Oracle, BI, ECM, CPM, CRM, ERP, Manufacturing-IT, Payroll- and HR-Shared Services). If you are analytical, goal oriented and have good communication skills, then you could work in roles like Analyst, Consultant or Expert.

Future in Project Delivery?

Logica delivers different kind of projects to our clients. The size of projects can range from couple of days to multiple years. If you have a skill to manage people, get things done and delivered in time, then you could find yourself home in roles like Project Manager, Team Lead, Test Manager, Quality Manager, Security Manager or System Analyst, for example. If you have graduated and have some work experience these might be options for you.

Passion for Technology?

Logica utilizes a wide variety of technologies and platforms. In addition we work in close co-operation with Microsoft, SAP, Oracle and many more. We also work in areas like mobile technology, SOA, security, cloud technology, virtual data centers, geographic and location based services. If you have passion for technology, then you could work in roles like Programmer (Java, .NET, SharePoint, SQL), Technical Architect, Technical Consultant or System Designer.

Interested in Service Business?

Logica has a strong experience in delivering IT-related services for our clients. We deliver different services related to infrastructure, applications and business processes. The service delivery is to keep the clients systems, applications and processes up and running. Client service and solving client problems are some of the main tasks. We also do service development. If you like helping our clients with their problems and are good at problems and are good with working under pressure, then you could be suited to work in our help desk or as Service Consultant.
